MCAS Yuma increases health protection condition; masks required

MARINE CORPS AIR STATION YUMA, Ariz. - Marine Corps Air Station Yuma has transitioned from Health Protection Condition Alpha to Bravo.

HPCON measures are put in place to mitigate the spread of disease based on the severity and level of transmission occurring in the local community. This increase in HPCON level directs that some services be modified or suspended to protect the health and safety of service members, their families, and the workforce.

On July 28, 2021 the Department of Defense published guidance directing service members, federal employees, on-site contractor employees, and visitors to wear face masks indoors in areas of substantial or high community transmission, regardless of vaccination status. In concurrence with this policy, face masks will be required when indoors aboard MCAS Yuma.

Employees on MCAS Yuma may remove their masks when eating or when alone in an enclosed office space with the door shut.
